I mean that might be a better idea..i can print some until he is able to get them.. but with all the other inserts I need to print and then the thermoshield guy randomly places a GIANT ass order I need to overnight, that might be a better idea..

Do you think it might be easier to just have Bob order these so it doesn't take up all your printing time?

I could ask how fast he could get them.

Okay, so that's about 6300 sheets a day I need to print to get to 25K a day in flyers. With my other inserts mixed in for Larry..

Let me test this out today/tomorrow and I'll see where I am at.. I feel like I can print that each day, may have to utilize the other cutter I have because this other cuts 1 sheet for every 2 sheets printed.

We will need about 25K a day right now. Will increase once these temps come in and we're able to ship more per day.

How many do you think you can make a day?

Hey,

Mike just sent over a frank speech flyer he wants in all of the orders going out, about how many a day are we talking?
Like what do we ship out a day?

Also, can you give me a few days to build up a stock so I don't start behind.. then we should be good to go on those..
